WELCOME

We ended 2010 with the blissful quiet that envelops the City after a snowfall—and the howls of complaint that followed when it took days and days to get us back to the din of our routine. And before the first month of the new year was over, we watched spellbound as first the Tunisians and then the Egyptians rose up against their repressive governments.

Through it all, The Trust kept its eyes clearly focused on the City, advancing a plan to put New Yorkers to work in health care jobs, pushing for a more humane juvenile justice system, connecting block associations with City agencies to make repairs and neighborhood improvements, promoting sustainable waterfront development, strengthening precarious arts groups, turning schools into safe places to learn, and finding jobs and housing for ex-cons. We'd love to cover it all in this report, but, you'll be relieved to know, have winnowed it down to a few projects and a lot of thumbnail sketches of our grants.

Since 1924, The Trust has helped make donors' charitable dreams come true by funding the nonprofits that make our city a vital and secure place. We ended 2010 with assets of $1.9 billion in more than 2,000 charitable funds, and made grants totaling $141 million. Whether you're giving today, or endowing a fund to support a cause or solve problems we can't now imagine, The Trust makes it easy to be a philanthropist. We invite you to learn about us and how to join our family of donors.

CHAIRMAN AND PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Lorie Slutsky and Charlynn Goins

Feeding a hungry child, helping a family avoid eviction, bringing art classes to public school kids, or planting a community garden is wonderfully satisfying.

In 2010, Trust donors did all this—and much, much more. New Yorkers' needs are many and compelling, immediate and abiding. They demand that we pay attention—now.

Marshalling money and talent to turn around an enormous school system, remake foster care, find an AIDS vaccine, and build affordable housing also demand that we pay attention now—but if we want results on these and other issues, we know that our children and grandchildren will have to pay attention long after we're gone.

Because of our donors, hundreds of City nonprofits know the joy—and sheer relief—of being able to tap a permanent resource of money to keep chipping away at complex issues that many people would describe as intractable. They know that The Trust is here forever, willing to take on unpopular causes, support organizing and advocacy, and fund the nuts and bolts of nonprofit management. They know—because we tell them—the stories of the generous New Yorkers who make it possible. Today and tomorrow.

Our endowment allowed us to respond immediately and thoughtfully to the market meltdown in 2008 and the dreadful impact it had and continues to have on New Yorkers. We were able to help nonprofits meet people's very basic needs, including those for food, emergency cash, foreclosure and eviction prevention, and legal help. And we assisted nonprofits working on the front lines, giving workers skills to cope with ever-larger numbers of clients and improve their efficiency. That work goes on.

We live in turbulent times, and if we've learned nothing else from the last few years, we know the folly of predicting the future. What we can promise is that generous New Yorkers will be there to contribute their money to get through the tough times and seize every opportunity to help the City thrive. We thank them and our dedicated board members for their commitment to a just and civil society for all.

GIVING

Having it all (at least when it comes to charity)

When it comes to giving away money, there's no shortage of opinion on the best way to do it. Starting with John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie, most philanthropists set up their foundations to last in perpetuity. But recently, there's been a growing chorus of the super wealthy to spend it all during their lifetimes. Charles Feeney, founder of Atlantic Philanthropies, a foundation that will close in 2020, is even exhorting signers of the Buffett/Gates Giving Pledge to reconsider leaving money in their wills, and instead, give it away today.

So, give while you live or give for the future?

Were it not for the passion on this subject, the answer would be easy: do both. At The Trust, we do. We believe that we need to deal with problems today and have an obligation to our children and grandchildren to leave resources so that, particularly in times of crisis, they have the means to respond. Giving today gives us and our donors joy and satisfaction—and makes the world a better place. The gifts of yesterday's donors make the lives of the New Yorkers in the following stories far more hopeful than they might have been. As Robert Frank of the Wall Street Journal wrote after the financial meltdown, “Now, with the living running out of cash, it is the nonliving who are back in the lead as donors.” It is with gratitude that we acknowledge our donors, who have remained steadfast.

Mr. Rockefeller lends a hand to Ms. Sosa of East New York—85 years later.

In 1924, The Trust had just incorporated and, as with all start ups, we needed money. So Ralph Hayes, our first director, approached the richest New Yorker he knew, John D. Rockefeller, Jr. A year later, Rockefeller wrote to Hayes: “I note with much interest the development of The Trust and congratulate you on what has been accomplished.” But he was concerned about the “very specific and limited purposes” of many of the funds. He continued:

“As our experience in giving grows, we find ourselves more loath to impose conditions which continue for an unlimited period of years, and are increasingly leaving broad discretion to the successor of present trustees.”

When Rockefeller endowed a fund in The Trust in his mother's memory with $2.5 million, he took his own advice. Eager to support causes that his mother cared about, he asked us to find organizations that provide aid and services to poor people. In 2010, we used money from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial to support the Council of Senior Centers and Services of NYC. Its Bill Payer Program, in conjunction with the AARP Foundation, helps low-income older adults and people with disabilities manage their finances. Amanda Leis, the dynamic manager of the program, tells this story:

“When Legal Aid called us, they had already helped Cecily Sosa stave off two eviction attempts. A 74-year-old diabetic originally from Trinidad, Ms. Sosa was doing fine until her life savings and home were sacrificed to care for her husband, who died from Alzheimer’s disease. She lives in a tiny apartment jam-packed with furniture and mementos. She can barely afford the $850 rent on her monthly income of $1,295. Before joining the Bill Payer Program, Ms. Sosa would pay her rent in two monthly installments, when unforeseen expenses didn’t result in her not paying at all.”

Earline Williams is a 77-year-old retired bookkeeper and volunteer with the program. “I don’t like to sit,” she says. Over the last year, she helped Ms. Sosa reduce expenses so she could pay her rent in full at the beginning of the month. Still, she struggled to maintain her utilities. Ms. Williams provided Ms. Sosa’s Legal Aid social worker, Mary Donohue, with crucial budget information that enabled Ms. Sosa to receive a monthly grant of $300 from a charitable foundation. With help from the Bill Payer Program, Mrs. Sosa has finally settled her housing court case and can pay her utilities. And, for the first time, her bank account is showing a surplus.

From an office under a Greenwich Village speakeasy with money borrowed from relatives, DeWitt and Lila Acheson Wallace put out the first issue of the Reader’s Digest. In late 1921, they mailed a letter soliciting subscriptions and went on their honeymoon. When they returned, they had 1,500 subscribers.

When the Wallaces gave up active management of their publishing empire in 1973, the Digest had a worldwide circulation of 30 million and was one of the world’s largest publishers of books and recorded music. They lived quietly—and philanthropically. In addition to their private foundations, they set up dozens of funds in The Trust. Many benefited a particular nonprofit and most had predetermined end dates, but several were for broader purposes and advised by the Wallace Foundation. For many years, Trust staff made grant recommendations to the Wallace Foundation for approval.

But in 2008, the Foundation asked us to consolidate several of the permanent funds into two: the Dewitt Wallace Fund for Youth and the Lila Acheson Wallace Fund for the Arts. The Foundation also gave The Trust full discretion over the money. Last year, Lower Manhattan Cultural Council (LMCC) used a grant from the Fund for the Arts to take a bite out of a constant problem for artists in an expensive city: finding affordable space in which to work and perform.

“As soon as I stepped on the ferry, I felt a sense of tranquility,” says Jessica Lagunas, an artist from Guatemala. She is talking about her commute to Governors Island, courtesy of LMCC’s Swing Space Program, which finds vacant office buildings and other venues for artists. Spaces include a 14,000 sq. ft. multi-use art center in a historic building on the Island.

Lagunas explores women’s condition in contemporary society. She got the spark for her project from the military history of Governors Island and the view of the water from her studio. Working with blue camouflage, she cut out pieces as in a jigsaw puzzle, stamped her name and LMCC on the back, and reassembled it by pinning it to a wall.

Visitors were encouraged to unpin and take a piece as a souvenir, causing it to gradually disappear.

The water and the Island also influenced J Carpenter, another artist who was given workspace. She loved the silence during the week, but was inspired by New Yorkers—particularly the kids—who took the ferry on weekends. “People come to have fun, and watching them brought a new playfulness and whimsy to my work.” Carpenter is interested in the idea of protection, and often works in lace she makes and twists to form houses. One of her pieces is a hollow wax sculpture in the shape of a balloon with windows. “A little girl, about five, circled the sculpture, stopped, went up to one of the windows, and yelled ‘IS THERE ANYBODY IN THERE?’ She got it.”

From Park Avenue to the Rockaways: A soap executive takes the A train.

It influenced decades of urban architecture: the blue-green glass building on the corner of Park Avenue and 53rd Street. Skidmore, Owings & Merrill designed Lever House, completed in 1952; its construction was the responsibility of William H. Burkhart, then vice president in charge of production, research, and development for Lever Brothers, the global soap company. Burkhart, a chemical engineer with a degree from the University of Pennsylvania, started out in a laboratory at Proctor & Gamble. In 1955, he was elected president of Lever Bros., where he developed new products at an unprecedented rate. In 1960, Burkhart opened a modest donor-advised fund in The Trust. He died four years later, having set up a permanent fund through his will for unrestricted purposes. A grant in 2010 from that fund supports the Ocean Bay Community Development Corporation.

Pat Simon, the executive director of this community hub a block from the beach, is not a woman to be trifled with. “I believe in giving people opportunities. Everybody deserves a chance—and the resources—to succeed. They can take it or not.” Working in Avene, a forgotten community in the isolated Rockaways, Simon knows how hard it is to get a job in a tough economy, especially if you haven’t graduated from high school or have no job skills. So Ocean Bay runs an employment program that teaches interview, basic computer, and general office skills, and helps with résumés and job applications. It’s one of several Ocean Bay programs that operate out of community centers in nearby housing projects and share a common goal: to strengthen a poor community that is beginning to see new middle class homes, and develop shared values for all its residents.

William H. Burkhart

“Why should you look directly into the eyes of a person interviewing you?” asks James Morris, an instructor in the jobs program. Hands shoot up quickly. “To show confidence,” answers one. “To show you’re really interested,” says another. Mr. Morris smiles. Some of the participants are there because they’ve been mandated by the courts, but it’s impossible to tell the difference between them and the young adults who’ve come on their own. They’re all enthusiastic.

Simon, who’s been a community organizer all her life, looks at it all with a practiced eye. “This community has all the usual problems: high poverty and crime rates, limited job opportunities, bad schools, etc. But I can see change happening. It may be small, but it’s there.”

Mr. Rockefeller, the Wallaces, and Mr. Burkhart tested The Trust during their lifetimes and trusted us to carry out their legacies. We like to think that they would be more than pleased with the work we support through their generosity. We know that our extraordinary grantees are. And more important, we know that they are helping New Yorkers improve their lives and those of the generation after that . . . and the generation after that.

SELECTED GRANTS

The thumbnail sketches below will give you a flavor of grantmaking in our four program areas. We urge you to read our grants newsletters for a full view of our program.

CHILDREN, YOUTH, AND FAMILIES

Youth Development

New Yorkers Against Gun Violence Education Fund, to train young people in high-crime neighborhoods to speak out and organize against gun violence and work with elected officials to strengthen gun laws.

Summer Matters Fund, to restore fun and enriching City-run summer programs that had been eliminated for poor middle-school children.

Substance Abuse

Bronx Addiction Services Integrated Concepts Systems, for a case management program for chronic addicts using detox services in two Bronx hospitals.

New York City Administration for Children's Services, to integrate substance abuse and mental health services for children, youth, and families with both addiction and mental health problems.

Social Services and Welfare

Council of Family and Child Caring Agencies, to help child-care agencies with little experience in preventive services meet new City requirements to reduce foster-care placement in communities with high rates of child abuse.

Jumpstart for Young Children, to use college students and volunteers in federally funded early childhood programs to help preschoolers improve their language skills.

Girls and Young Women

Inwood House, to help child welfare agencies be more responsive to the needs of young mothers.

Legal Momentum, to increase the number of New York City high school girls in nontraditional vocational programs.

Hunger and Homelessness

Bridge Fund of New York, for cash and counseling to help families facing eviction keep their homes.

Food Bank for New York City, to give more food to emergency feeding programs so that they can feed the growing number of hungry people.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND THE ENVIRONMENT

New York Environment

Friends of the High Line, to ensure that the northern third of the elevated park built on a former train track is completed.

The Metropolitan Waterfront Alliance helps balance transportation, industrial, and recreational uses of the City's waterfront. Metropolitan Waterfront Alliance, to advocate for a plan that balances environmental preservation, industry, tourism, and recreation for the City's waterways.

National and International Environment Center for Biological Diversity, to reduce the acidification of oceans, which harms sea life.

Clean Air Task Force, to mitigate the effects of climate change on the Arctic by reducing global emissions of black carbon and other short-lived pollutants.

Workforce Development

Southern New York Association, to recruit and train veterans of the Iraq and Afghanistan wars to work in nursing homes.

Workforce Development Corporation, to coordinate a program that works with health care employers, unions, and educators to train poor New Yorkers and existing workers for jobs in health care.

Community Development

Bedford Stuyvesant Restoration Corporation, to provide financial literacy workshops, job training and placement, and benefits counseling to residents, including formerly incarcerated youth.

Harlem Congregations for Community Improvement, to help young people get jobs through career counseling, job referrals, and paid internships.

Civic Affairs

Citizens Union Foundation of the City of New York, to reform the redistricting process in New York State.

New School Center for New York City Affairs, for Feet in Two Worlds, a program that trains immigrant journalists to attract more people to ethnic media outlets and get their stories picked up by mainstream media.

Technical Assistance

Community Resource Exchange, to provide management consulting to clusters of small community groups in the far corners of the five boroughs.

Hispanic Federation, to help Latino nonprofits strengthen their financial management systems.

EDUCATION, ARTS, AND HUMAN JUSTICE

Education

Internationals Network for Public Schools, to promote a tested program for educating immigrant students in mainstream City classrooms.

New York University Steinhardt School of Education, to expand a successful literacy program for grades K through 3 in classes in which students have varying levels of English proficiency.

Arts

Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company, to help it merge with Dance Theater Workshop.

Downtown Community Television Center, for Beyond Bullets, an anti-gun violence media campaign that trains young reporters to make videos about the impact of guns on their communities.

Historic Preservation

Coney Island USA, to promote Coney Island's history and increase the number of visitors to the neighborhood.

Weeksville Heritage Center, to publish and distribute an educator's guide on 19th-century African-American history.

Human Justice

LawHelp/NY, to provide online legal information for poor New Yorkers.

Legal Services NYC, to continue a partnership with the Legal Aid Society that provides legal services for low-income New Yorkers who are facing destitution.

HEALTH AND PEOPLE WITH SPECIAL NEEDS

Health Services

Montefiore Medical Center, to study the effectiveness of community health workers in treating poor Bronx children who suffer from asthma.

North Shore-Long Island Jewish Health System Foundation, to bring an exercise program to 10 City schools with high percentages of overweight kids.

Children and Youth with Disabilities

League Treatment Center, to help children with speech and behavioral problems.

Manhattan New Music Project, to train special education teachers in public schools to use the arts in teaching disabled children.

Mental Health and Mental Retardation

Center for the Independence of the Disabled, to help Spanish-speaking youth with mental retardation who live in Queens make the transition to adult services.

Fountain House, to expand a health and mental health clinic for seriously mentally ill people with chronic physical health problems.

Blindness and Visual Disabilities

Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, to start the country's second ophthalmic oncology fellowship.

New York City Industries for the Blind, to recruit and train blind adults to manufacture specialized military uniforms.

HIV/AIDS

Amida Care, to enroll people with AIDS in comprehensive health care.

Alpha Workshops, to train people with AIDS for jobs in the design industry.

Elderly

New York University School of Nursing, to study the effectiveness of combining two nursing programs to improve hospital care for elderly patients.

Vocal Ease, to bring volunteer musicians and singers to hospitals, nursing homes, and senior residences to perform for the sick and the elderly.

Biomedical Research

Albert Einstein College of Medicine, for a study to improve treatment of bone cancer in children.

New Jersey Medical School, to study the evolution of drug-resistant bacteria.

Health Policy

Coalition of New York State Public Health Plans, to determine if the new State health insurance application is easier to use.

United Hospital Fund, to improve communication between health care professionals and family caregivers.

Healthy coral provides food and shelter to many species of sea life, but as the ocean absorbs increasing amounts of carbon dioxide, the water becomes more acidic, killing the coral and harming important ecosystems. HOW TO APPLY FOR A GRANT

The Trust makes grants in four general areas: Children, Youth, and Families; Community Development and the Environment; Education, Arts, and Human Justice; and Health and People with Special Needs.

We are committed to sticking with significant issues that may not lend themselves to quick or easy solutions, while remaining open to projects that tackle emerging problems and to organizations that may be new to us.

We make most of our grants to nonprofit organizations located in the five boroughs of New York City. Our suburban divisions handle grants on Long Island and in Westchester (page 29).

Grants for programs outside our area generally are from funds designated for specific charities or that we've made at the suggestion of living donors.

Applicants should begin by requesting "Guidelines for Grant Applicants" and one or more of the four brochures that describe in detail each of our grantmaking areas. We also suggest that you request copies of our grants newsletter to get a sense of the kinds of projects we fund currently. Please call our receptionist at (212) 686-0010, ext. 0, or visit our website, nycommunitytrust.org.

If, after you have read our guidelines, you believe that your proposed project meets our criteria, send us a cover letter along with a completed application form (enclosed with the guidelines), and a copy of the proposal—not more than 10 pages plus appendices. Include in your letter a brief summary of the proposal, the amount requested, and the results expected. We do not accept proposals sent by fax or e-mail.

Please note that we don't make grants to individuals and rarely for endowments, building campaigns, deficit financing, films, general operating support, or religious purposes.

We have no specific submission deadlines. Our Distribution Committee meets five times annually to make grants, and we accept applications throughout the year.

We'll let you know within two weeks that we have received your material. During the review process, Trust staff will analyze your proposal, determine if and how it fits into our grantmaking program, and check to see if there is adequate money available in an appropriate fund. We'll get in touch with you if we have further questions or need more information.

The Trust welcomes your application, but because we can't fund every proposal submitted to us, we urge you to send yours to several other funders as well.

BECOMING A DONOR

The New York Community Trust offers donors with every kind of philanthropic interest an easy and flexible way to accomplish their charitable objectives and receive the maximum tax deduction allowed by law.

Types of Funds

An unrestricted fund is a good option for donors who want to be assured that their gift will always be used to meet vital needs and improve the quality of life in New York City. Our staff is expert in identifying community needs and the nonprofits best equipped to meet them.

In a field-of-interest fund, charitable giving is focused on issues of concern to the donor, such as child and family welfare, youth, education, human justice, conservation, or health policy. The Trust makes grants that meet current needs in the chosen fields. Donors can also establish field-of-interest funds that they advise.

A donor-advised fund is an unrestricted fund legally, but the donor recommends the organizations to receive grants. Although we cannot, by law, be bound by these recommendations, we take them very seriously and approve grants to recommended nonprofits that meet charitable standards for programmatic and financial soundness.

A designated fund is for donors who want to support specific organizations but recognize that the world may change. They establish a designated fund in The Trust rather than leave it directly to the charity to assure that their gift remains relevant over time and responsive to changing circumstances. (See page 24 for an explanation of the variance power.)

Each donor establishes a fund with a minimum of $5,000. Donors first decide what they want to accomplish with their philanthropy; our staff is happy to help clarify and refine goals. They then choose the name of the fund, typically using their own names or the names of individuals to be honored or memorialized. Donors who prefer anonymity can choose a general name.

There are at least three ways to establish a fund with us:

Give Now: You can set up a fund to support charities during your lifetime and endow it to

“I hope more people realize that they too can be part of the philanthropic community without being a billionaire.”

Michael Sasse

“I really liked your ad in the Times the other day (shown at right). So far, it seemed, The Trust placed so much emphasis on charitable giving as part of estate planning. But it is way more fun to do it while one is still alive. The great asset of The Trust is to build an endowment over time while making charitable contributions to one’s favorite causes. And all the decision-making is assisted by the ample resources of The Trust.

“I hope more people realize that they too can be part of the philanthropic community without being a billionaire. (Remember when it was a real big deal to be a millionaire?)”

We got the e-mail above from Michael Sasse, a Trust donor since 2001. Sasse is not a billionaire, or even a millionaire. He’s a nurse at a hospital in Brooklyn, where he now lives.

He came to New York from Germany in 1988 as a tourist and stayed. He got his degree in nursing from St. Vincent’s Hospital, where he worked for 22 years until it closed. “New York is a fascinating place,” says Michael. “It’s given me an opportunity to live life to the fullest.”

Sasse has always found the money to give to charity. “I’m a salaried person,” he says, “but I think it’s important that we all contribute to our communities. I saw a Trust ad and was intrigued. The Trust makes it so easy to become an involved donor. And when there’s a person who knows you, it makes it really comfortable. I like to give to charities that can use and appreciate a modest grant. When Bob Edgar or Gay Young say, ‘we’ve checked out that nonprofit,’ I know it’s okay.”

Why let the billionaires have all the fun?

Whatever your philanthropic passions, The New York Community Trust can help you design your own Giving Pledge.

You can help solve today’s problems or leave money for tomorrow’s rainy days. Set up a charitable fund with us and get the expert advice and support the billionaires get.

To find out how, call Gay Young at (212) 658-0000 x377, e-mail book@nyct-trust.org, or visit nyctcommunitytrust.org.

continue your philanthropy for future generations. Many of our donors regularly add money to the funds they have established.

Give Later: Donors can set up funds through deferred-giving arrangements. A key feature of many estate plans is a tax advantage to you now for the commitment of a charitable gift later. Charitable Remainder Trusts, Charitable Lead Trusts, and gifts of life insurance or retirement plan assets can all be used.

Wills: After providing for personal bequests, you may include provisions for setting up a fund with us or adding to one you already have here. You will save estate taxes and ensure that the charitable work you care about will be continued.

Types of Assets

Funds may be established with the following: cash, securities traded on major exchanges, closely held stock, mutual fund shares, retirement plan assets, real estate, interests in limited partnerships, and literature copyrights.

We are glad to discuss proposed contributions with you. We cannot accept assets that are not readily convertible for the financial benefit of charity or that carry unusual potential liability.

Fund Administration and Fees

A fund established with our organization may be held in trust with one of our 11 trustees (see page 32), or it may be held by Community Funds, Inc., our not-for-profit corporation. Both operate as The New York Community Trust with a single governing body. If a fund is set up in trust, the bank handles the investments. If it is set up in Community Funds, our distinguished Investment Committee oversees the performance of the outside portfolio managers. The determining factor is the inclination of the donor. The service we provide is the same.

The administrative fee charged to our funds is competitive. Please visit our website, nycommunitytrust.org, Giving at The Trust, to see our current fee.

Funds that are held in trust are also charged a trustee's fee set by the bank. It may be negotiated between the bank and the donor at the inception of the fund, and varies from bank to bank.

The Internal Revenue Service has classified The New York Community Trust and its affiliate, Community Funds, Inc., as "tax exempt" under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code; as a "publicly supported" organization under Section 170b(1)(A)(vi); and as "not a private foundation" under Section 509(a)(1). This status ensures donors the maximum tax benefit allowed by law. The Long Island Community Foundation and the Westchester Community Foundation (described on page 29) are divisions of Community Funds.

We have a disciplined process for setting our endowment spending policy. If you set up a permanent fund in Community Funds, you should know that recent changes to New York law allow us to make expenditures from principal if our Board thinks it's prudent, unless the gift instrument prohibits it. Although we don't anticipate changing our current spending policy, the law provides a legal standard for doing so. Please discuss any proposed restrictions on expenditures with us in advance.

A Fund in The Trust, a Private Foundation—or Both?

A fund in The Trust provides a very attractive alternative to establishing a private foundation. We are a public charity with the attendant tax advantages. A full-time professional staff takes care of all the administrative and grantmaking activities, eliminating the need to set up a separate institution, formulate policies, file innumerable forms, and monitor the status of grant recipients. Establishing a private foundation can take months and be costly; with The Trust, the legal apparatus is already in place, and creating a fund can take less than a day.

For some people, a private foundation is the preferred option, but many donors with private foundations also have funds with us. Often, the donor uses a fund here to support causes and nonprofits that are outside the general focus of the private foundation. And almost all want to increase the impact of their philanthropy by joining other generous New Yorkers who care about the City.

We also offer substantial advantages over most commercial donor-advised funds: in-depth knowledge of the nonprofit community, and the capacity to accept unusual gifts. Because our business is philanthropy, we can help make sure that your money makes a difference.

Further Information

The New York Community Trust is happy to work with you or with your lawyer, trust officer, or other financial advisor.

We invite you to get in touch with us at any time. Call our general counsel Jane L. Wilton (Ext. 379), Robert V. Edgar (Ext. 373), or Gay Young (Ext. 377) in our Donor Relations Department at (212) 686-0010.

Susan Berresford

I grew up in New York City, and returned after college to begin a career in the anti-poverty programs that were just getting started in the early 1960s. Settlement houses and community groups we worked with so often proudly noted the support they received from The New York Community Trust that I began to wonder about this donor—what it was, who ran it, and how it reached so many interesting organizations. I asked around and heard such impressive reports that I stored away the name as a place I might someday be lucky enough to know well.

Luck did indeed help out, when in 1970 I joined the Ford Foundation as a research assistant and began to meet donors across the country. As I took on new and greater responsibilities at Ford, eventually becoming its president in 1996, I kept running into The Trust. Its president and senior staff helped me learn about philanthropy in New York and about the growing number of community foundations in the U.S. They helped me craft a set of partnerships between Ford, a national donor, and local community foundations, and they were an invaluable resource for knowledge about our great city and ways Ford could help improve opportunities for people needing assistance. Soon, I counted my Trust colleagues among my most valued professional friends, and they remain so today.

Several years ago, I established a fund in The Trust, named after my father who died when I was an adolescent. I wanted the convenience of making grants easily, and I hoped I could support artistic expression—something my father loved and did with vigor and delight. I have been proud to support established groups like the Metropolitan Opera, the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and Lincoln Center Theater. In addition, my fund has granted money for a new organization called United States Artists, which makes 50 grants of $50,000 each to artists in all disciplines each year reaching across all of the United States. The organization recently opened a web portal on which artists can describe projects for which they need support and through which individuals can make tax-deductible contributions to those projects. I see United States Artists as taking the extraordinary service The New York Community Trust offers, and adapting it to support individual artists all across the nation. The Trust makes grantmaking so easy, and also exposes me to the latest developments in philanthropy and the laws and regulations that govern it.

“Each of us who values the freedom to give according to our interests and passions, and for long or short periods, should do whatever we can to ensure the protection of these essentials of personal giving. The Trust helps me do that, as I am sure it does for others.”

Our country has a marvelous philanthropic history and network, but we should not take its continued progress for granted. Each of us who values the freedom to give according to our interests and passions, and for long or short periods, should do whatever we can to ensure the protection of these essentials of personal giving. The Trust helps me do that, as I am sure it does for others.

GUIDELINES FOR ATTORNEYS

Our booklet, Creating a Fund Here: Suggested Words and Procedures, provides all the relevant information for establishing a fund in The New York Community Trust.

It contains The Trust's tax exemption letter, descriptive material on the different types of funds, and suggested language to help you draft the instrument. Call us to receive a copy or visit our publications page online at nycommunitytrust.org.

Donors have the option of setting up funds in The New York Community Trust with a bank as trustee or in our not-for-profit corporate affiliate, Community Funds, Inc. The organizations share a governing board and file a single tax return with the IRS.

Three Important Facts

We are unable to accept a fund unless its terms have been reviewed by us and found acceptable. It is particularly helpful if we review the language before the instrument is executed to ensure that we can meet the donor's purpose.

For funds held in trust as part of The New York Community Trust, a co-trustee is not permitted.

All our funds enjoy an important advantage: If a change of circumstances makes literal compliance with the terms of the gift instrument "unnecessary, undesirable, impractical, or impossible," our governing body is able to vary them. Donors are assured that their gifts will never become obsolete; they will remain useful to the community in perpetuity.

Creating a Fund in The New York Community Trust

The Resolution and Declaration of Trust Creating "The New York Community Trust" (the R&D) is a complete trust instrument. It sets out in detail the powers and duties of the trustee bank and the Distribution Committee. In order to establish a fund in The Trust, the founding document—whether for a bequest or a gift during lifetime—must incorporate the R&D by reference. Please call us for a copy.

Creating a Fund in Community Funds

Community Funds is a New York State not-for-profit corporation. As with a fund in The New York Community Trust, a fund established in Community Funds becomes part of a publicly supported organization, and is not regarded as a private foundation. Unlike a fund in The Trust, no trustee bank is involved. The fund is held and administered pursuant to the provisions of the New York Not-for-Profit Corporation Law. Please call us for a copy of the Certificate of Incorporation and By-Laws of Community Funds.

Creating a Fund in our Long Island or Westchester Division

Because the Long Island Community Foundation and the Westchester Community Foundation are divisions of Community Funds, donors have the same options described above.

“The Trust offers a useful way to contribute highly appreciated assets, but it’s also a good way to encourage children to be charitable.”

Richard W. Moore

Dick Moore is a partner specializing in trusts and estates at Duckworth and Moore in Manhattan. In practice for 35 years, he’s written wills for a lot of clients. And he’s helped set up funds in The Trust for several of them. He and his wife also have their own fund, as do his parents and children. Moore comes from a long line of philanthropists.

“The Trust offers a useful way to contribute highly appreciated assets,” says Moore, “but it’s also a good way to encourage children to be charitable.”

“One effective estate planning approach is to provide a disclaimer in a will or other testamentary documents in favor of a donor-advised fund for an heir in The Trust. In large estates, the child can disclaim a portion of his or her inheritance, reducing estate taxes and giving the child an efficient vehicle for charitable gifts.”

Moore is also a fan of The Trust’s “variance power” for certain donors. The variance power allows The Trust’s board, after considerable review, to vary the purpose of an endowed designated or field-of-interest fund if, over time, it becomes impossible, impractical, unnecessary, or undesirable to continue making grants for the original purpose.

GOVERNING BODY

The governing body consists of 12 members who serve as the Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust and as the Board of Directors of Community Funds. It is their responsibility to oversee our organization’s operations and grantmaking.

Six members are nominated by civic authorities representing the public: one by the Mayor of the City of New York; one by the Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; one by the Chairman of the New York City Partnership and Chamber of Commerce; one by the Chairman of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts; one by the President of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York; and one by the President of the New York Academy of Medicine. The Distribution Committee selects five members, and the President of The Trust is a member by reason of office.

Members serve without compensation. They are selected for their judgment, integrity, and understanding of philanthropic needs. The Committee meets every two months throughout the year; subcommittees meet on a regular basis.

The Finance and Audit Committee monitors the financial operations of The Trust. The Investment Committee (see page 43) establishes asset allocation guidelines, recommends investment advisors and vehicles, and monitors investment performance. The Fund Purposes and Suggestion Review Committees assure that the provisions and intent of each donor’s philanthropy are honored, and reviews grants suggested by donors to ensure that they meet our charitable guidelines.

SUBURBAN DIVISIONS

With the belief that grantmaking is most effective when it is done locally,

The Trust established divisions that reach out to the greater metropolitan area: the Westchester Community Foundation, founded in 1975, and the Long Island Community Foundation, founded in 1978.

Each is guided by a board of advisors composed of community leaders and staffed by people expert in grantmaking and donor services. As part of The Trust,

Long Island and Westchester enjoy our investment management, legal, financial, and accounting services. For donors who wish to contribute to charities in these communities, our suburban divisions combine sensitivity to local concerns with the economies of scale and expertise of a large organization. Funds in each division are listed on the following two pages.

TRUSTEE BANKS

In 1923, the banks of New York City envisioned the type of philanthropic organization that could best meet the changing needs of this community.

It would be set up to give wealthy people and those of moderate means an equal opportunity to accomplish their philanthropy within a flexible framework. The charitable funds they created would be permanently secure. The organization's governing body—an impartial and changing committee of New York citizens chosen for their understanding of philanthropic needs—would oversee the selection of charitable beneficiaries.

This was the beginning of The New York Community Trust. Today 11 banks and trust companies have adopted the “Resolution and Declaration of Trust Creating The New York Community Trust.” The representatives of these financial institutions constitute the Trustees' Committee, and each bank is authorized to receive funds in trust for The New York Community Trust.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

(1) Organization

The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) (The Trust) are community foundations created to build permanent charitable endowments for the areas they serve. The Trust, as the consolidated foundations are hereinafter referred to, is tax exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (the Code) and has been determined not to be a private foundation under Section 509(a)(1) of the Code. The Trust administers nearly 2,000 individual charitable funds, each established with an instrument of gift describing either the general or specific purposes for which grants are to be made, usually from income only, but in some cases from principal.

(2) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Accounting standards provide that if the governing body of an organization has the ability to remove a donor restriction, the contributions should be classified as unrestricted net assets. However, under New York State law and The Trust's governing instruments, the assets are held as endowment funds until such time (if ever) as the governing body deems it prudent and appropriate to expend some part of the principal or appreciation. Accordingly, the consolidated financial statements classify all net assets as unrestricted, but segregate the portion that is held as endowment from the funds that are currently available for grants and administration.

Cash equivalents represent short term investments with original maturities of 90 days or less, except for those short term investments managed as part of long term investment strategies.

Fixed assets are recorded at cost and are depreciated on a straight line basis over the estimated life of the respective asset. Leasehold improvements are depreciated over the life of the respective improvement or the remaining term of the lease, whichever is shorter. Fixed assets are reported net of accumulated depreciation of $1,930,275 in 2010 and $1,705,981 in 2009.

Investment expenses include fees for bank trustees, investment managers, and custodians.

Grants and services to beneficiaries are expensed with approval of the Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust (NYCT) or the Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc. (CFI), and usually paid within one year.

The Trust has adopted a constant growth spending plan for many of its funds. This approach allows spending to increase at a steady rate within the confines of a floor, a ceiling, and a cap. The spending plan is not applied to funds in CFI that are considered to be underwater, as defined by New York State law. At December 31, 2010, there were 5 funds with a market value of approximately $400,000, and a deficiency of about $100,000, considered to be underwater.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the consolidated financial statements prepared by management and are based upon management's current judgments. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(3) Investments and Fair Value Measurements

Fair value is defined as the exchange price that would be received for an asset, or paid to transfer a liability (an exit price), in the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability in an orderly transaction between market participants on the measurement date. A fair value hierarchy requires The Trust to maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs when measuring fair value. The three levels of the hierarchy are:

- Level 1 inputs are quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.
- Level 2 inputs are inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset such as quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities.
- Level 3 inputs are unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Accounting Standards Update 2010-12 (ASU-2010-12) Investments in Certain Entities That Calculate Net Asset Value Per Share (or Its Equivalent), which amends ASC 820, allows the Trust, as a practical expedient, to estimate the fair value of investments in investment companies for which the investment does not have a readily determinable fair market value using net asset value.

Most of The Trust's investments are in publicly traded securities or in commingled funds, including common trust funds, which are invested in publicly traded securities. Fair value for these investments is based on quoted market prices and observable net asset values. The Trust also invests in hedge funds, private equity and certain real estate investments. The fair value of these investments has been determined primarily through independent appraisals using an income based approach and the net asset values provided by the fund managers utilizing quoted market prices of the underlying securities, market values of comparable companies, and discounted cash flow projections. These valuations are reviewed for reasonableness by management of The Trust.

The following tables present The Trust's fair value hierarchy at December 31, 2010 and 2009, respectively:

The Trust's alternative investments include:

Equity Oriented Hedge Funds – The principal investment is a fund of hedge funds that mainly take both long and short positions in equities. The long positions may be leveraged. The funds may also employ options, warrants, futures, commodities, fixed income securities, currency forward contracts, and other financial instruments. A second holding is a direct investment in a hedge fund that takes long and short positions in commodity-based marketable equities, primarily in the energy sector.

Absolute Return Hedge Funds – These consist of three multi-strategy funds that attempt to generate consistent positive returns by focusing on opportunities that are not correlated to the returns of the overall markets. The main strategies include merger arbitrage and other event-driven investments, distressed securities and securities of companies undergoing various types of restructurings, and convertible and capital structure arbitrage. Some funds also invest in leveraged loans, real estate equity and debt, and private equity.

Real Estate – This includes an investment in a fund that holds properties that are net leased to tenants with below investment grade credit ratings. The fund's holdings are analogous to high-yield bonds collateralized with real estate. As the result of a gift, there is also an investment in a limited liability company that owns land in New York City leased to the owner of a high rise office building.

Private Equity – Although the investments are largely in funds of funds, they also include two direct investments in private equity partnerships. Both the funds of funds and the two partnerships focus on buyouts – primarily of midcap companies. Three of the funds of funds also have a small allocation to venture capital. In addition, The Trust, through gifts, acquired interests in a limited partnership investment holding company and a limited liability company. The assets of the LP holding company consist almost entirely of publicly traded common stock in one company.

The Trust's investments in hedge funds may be redeemed at the net asset value as of the measurement date and at least annually thereafter, in certain cases more frequently. Advance notice of 30 – 90 days is required to redeem these investments. As such, these investments have been categorized as Level 2 assets.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Capital invested in Level 3 assets is returned as the underlying investments are liquidated. The liquidation will occur over the term of the individual investment with the termination of these investments scheduled at various times between 2013 and 2019. Certain of The Trust's investments in private equity and real estate involve future cash commitments which amount to approximately $32 million at December 31, 2010.

The following table presents reconciliation for all Level 3 assets measured at fair value for the period January 1 to December 31:

(4) Pension and Postretirement Medical Benefit Plans

The Trust administers a noncontributory defined benefit pension plan covering substantially all employees. Benefits are based on years of service and the employee's compensation during the five highest consecutive years during the last ten years of employment. The Trust also provides medical insurance benefits for its eligible retired employees. Obligations and funded status at December 31 are as follows:

	Pension benefits		Postretirement medical benefits
	2010	2009	2010	2009
Benefit obligation	$ 17,563,984	$ 15,322,334	$ 2,499,560	$ 2,490,224
Fair value of plan assets	14,231,009	12,982,458	—	—
Funded status	$ (3,332,975)	$ (2,339,876)	$(2,499,560)	$ (2,490,224)
Benefit costs	$ 902,181	$ 1,080,700	$ 199,508	$ 215,959
Benefits paid	$ 535,333	$ 461,013	$ 55,263	$ 62,279
Plan contribution	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —

The accumulated amounts not yet recognized as a component of net periodic benefit cost was $4,539,379 and $85,595 at December 31, 2010 for the pension and postretirement medical plans, respectively. The estimated amount that will be amortized into net periodic benefit cost in 2011 is $225,976 and $(40,337), respectively.

The discount rates used to value the pension and postretirement medical benefit plans range from 5.5% to 6.0%. The weighted average expected return on plan assets and rate of compensation increase for the calculation of the pension benefits is 8% and 4%, respectively, as of December 31, 2010. The health care cost trend rate assumption for 2011 is 7.8% declining each year to 6.1% in 2016.

The pension plan is invested in a balanced portfolio of equity and fixed income securities. Annual projected benefit payments for the pension and postretirement medical benefit plans are expected to average $1,010,000 and $99,000, through 2020, respectively.

The Trust also sponsors a defined contribution retirement plan for employees, in which contributions are based upon a specified percentage of salaries. The expense for this retirement plan was $509,116 and $538,166 in 2010 and 2009, respectively.

(5) Commitments

On March 30, 2004, The Trust entered into a lease agreement for office space expiring March 31, 2020. Future minimum rental payments are approximately $1.3 million in 2011 through 2014, $1.5 million in 2015, and a total of $6.3 million thereafter through 2020.

Rental expense is recognized on a straight-line basis, in accordance with ASC 840, Accounting for Leases. The excess of recognized expense over actual rent payments as well as landlord provided improvements has been recorded as deferred rent credits. Rent expense for the years ended December 31, 2010 and 2009 amounted to $1,277,887 and $1,321,980, respectively.

(6) Subsequent Events

The Trust evaluated its December 31, 2010 consolidated financial statements for subsequent events through May 5, 2011, the date the consolidated financial statements were available to be issued. The Trust is not aware of any subsequent events which would require recognition or disclosure in the consolidated financial statement.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Independent Auditors' Report

Distribution Committee of The New York Community Trust and Board of Directors of Community Funds, Inc.:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated statements of financial position of The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) (collectively, The Trust) as of December 31, 2010 and 2009, and the related consolidated statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of The Trust's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these consolidated financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes consideration of internal control over financial reporting as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of The Trust's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of The New York Community Trust and Community Funds, Inc. (including its Long Island and Westchester Divisions) as of December 31, 2010 and 2009, and the changes in their net assets and their cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

The logo for KPMG LLP, featuring the letters 'KPMG' in a stylized, bold font followed by 'LLP' in a smaller, simpler font, all enclosed within a white rectangular box.
