DENTAL DIVISION OF ISBH REPORTS FLUORIDATION PROGRESS

Community efforts for fluoridation are presently underway in several key communities in Indiana. These include Lawrence, Speedway, New Albany and Lawrenceburg. Presently in Indiana among those people served by a community water supply, about 70 percent are drinking water containing the optimal amount of fluoride. The list of communities instituting this important health measure is growing steadily.

ORTHODONTICS HIGHLIGHTS

The months of October and November were extremely busy for the members of the Department of Orthodontics. Among the busiest was Dr. Burstone. From October 7 - 14, he presented a short course dealing with the segmented arch technique at the University of Montreal in cooperation with Dr. Claude Baril, chairman of the Department of Orthodontics of that university. From Montreal, Dr. Burstone flew to Pittsburgh, Pa. for the annual meeting of the Great Lakes Society of Orthodontists. During this meeting, he was named vice-president of the society for the coming year.

Dr. B. S. Cryer from Guy's Hospital London, England spent nine days visiting and observing in the Orthodontic Department. Dr. Cryer came to IUSD while on a "traveling fellowship" which makes it possible for him to visit a large number of universities throughout the United States. During his visit here, it was discovered that he knows Dr. James Page, formerly of the Department of Pedodontics, and his father quite well. He took greetings from the School of Dentistry back to England with him.

The Department of Orthodontics was well represented in Dallas at the time of the meeting of the American Dental Association. Dr. Burstone and Dr. Garner both presented papers during the meeting. Dr. Garner's paper dealt with orthodontic treatment of the cleft palate patient, and Dr. Burstone spoke on the application of cephalometrics to prosthetics.

Dr. Stephen Bailie ('65) has joined the staff of the Department of Orthodontics. Steve, upon completion of his training, went to Wisconsin where he joined the teaching staff of the Orthodontic Department at Marquette University. In September, Dr. Bailie joined Dr. Stanley Braun in his practice and became a member of the IUSD Orthodontic Department. It is with pleasure that we welcome his return.
