School of Physical Education and Tourism Management to Assume Management Responsibilities for Camp Brosius

The Indiana University Board of Trustees, at their regularly scheduled meeting on December 5th, heard recommendations of a task force that the management of Camp Brosius be transferred to the Indiana University School of Physical Education and Tourism Management. The transfer will take effect in time for the 2005 summer program.

Camp Brosius was founded in 1921 by the Normal College of the American Gymnastic Union, the predecessor institution of the School of Physical Education and Tourism Management. The school has used the camp continuously as a summer training facility for its students. The school also operated a children's summer camp until 1974 when the Indiana University Alumni Association initiated a family camp that operated during June, July and August.

The Indiana University Alumni Association Board of Managers had decided that it would not renew the association's lease to manage the camp when the lease expires on October 31, 2004.

Among the recommendations is that Indiana University retain ownership in the camp as long as the facility can operate on a self-sustaining basis. Also, the task force recommended that the school assume ongoing responsibility for operating the camp as it currently functions and the Indiana University Alumni Association provide transitional assistance to the school during the 2004 season.

The task force stipulated that the fee structure used for the 2004 summer season be adjusted in such a way as to generate a 20 percent increase in revenue from family camp fees and that the 2004 season serve as a test to ensure that the market is solid. Further stipulations are that a feasibility study into a capital campaign for non-essential but desirable improvements to the camp be undertaken.

"The Indiana University Alumni Association has established a very popular program in family camping," said School of Physical Education and Tourism Management Dean, Dr. P. Nicholas Kellum. "With the school's continuing need for the camp as a training facility, it seems reasonable to extend our reach to total management of the facility. We certainly have the best interests of the camp at heart and faculty in both physical education and tourism management with expertise that will serve the camping program well."

School of Physical Education and Tourism Management Alumna on Cover of Time

In December 2003, Time magazine named "The American Soldier" as its 2003 Person of the Year. Spc. Billie Grimes, 26, is shown on the cover between Sgt. Marquette Whiteside and Sgt. Ronald Buxton. They're all members of the same Army survey platoon, based in Giessen, Germany.

Billie Grimes, a graduate of Western Boone High School in Lebanon, served in the Army Reserve a couple of years before graduating from the School of Physical Education and Tourism Management in 2002 with a major in Fitness and Sports Studies and a minor in Athletic Training. She went on active duty in July 2002 and has been in Kuwait and Iraq since May 10th.

As the platoon's medic, she treated two Time journalists, along with injured members of her unit, on December 10th.

Time writer Michael Weisskopf's right hand was blown off, and photographer James Nachtwey was hit with shrapnel when a grenade landed in their Humvee as the platoon was stuck in Baghdad traffic.

"That story is typical Billie," says Jay Bradley, Clinical Assistant Professor and Director of the Athletic Training Program.

"She has a job to do and she does it. She realized there were some injured people and she helped them."

Bradley feels Grimes's training at the School of Physical Education and Tourism Management helped prepare her for a career in the Army. In the Athletic Training program, Grimes worked closely with all of IUPUI's athletic teams, taping, splinting and bracing athlete's injured joints and helping them with strength training.

Grimes returned home for a six-week holiday leave shortly after the magazine hit the newsstands. During that time, she was a guest of President and Mrs. Bush at the State of the Union Address, met with the Army's joint Chiefs of Staff and the Surgeon General, rang the opening bell on Wall Street, received the key to the city of Lebanon, threw out the football at a Colts playoff game and received a pizza delivered by the founder of Papa John's Pizza.

Grimes returned to Iraq on February 2nd. Her new duties include getting military vehicles ready for shipment out of the country. In mid-April, she and her unit are set to return to Germany until July 11th, when her Iraq tour of duty is scheduled to end.

Department of Physical Education

Jane Schneider, Normal College '35, is retired and living in south Florida after having taught physical education, health and English in the Louisville, KY public school system for 37 years. Jane writes, "At 85, I am still dancing, bowling and shopping and look forward to a week of camping at our Wisconsin woods camp again this summer. Camp Brosius has lured us back many times over the years, and why not? Good fun, good companionship and good food!"

Edward Stanley, Normal College '36, is enjoying his retirement with wife, Sue, in Nokomis, Florida. When Ed was in school, he was on the gymnastics team and was voted the top rated gymnast of the year.

Kathy Garcea, BS '71, is Chair of the Department of Health and Physical Education and coaches boys baseball at Hutchinson Central Tech High School in Buffalo, NY. The Buffalo News wrote a cover story on Kathy because she is one of only two women who coach boys' sports in Western New York. The other female coach is a former student of Kathy's who says she was her inspiration. Kathy has coached on-and-off for 20 years and in that time her teams have won six Cornell Cup titles. Prior to coaching baseball she was an assistant football coach for the school.

Tim McCoy, BS '90, has returned to Indianapolis with his wife, Leigh-Ann, and their three children, to become the executive director for the Benjamin Harrison Branch of the YMCA of Greater Indianapolis. A YMCA professional for more than a decade, Tim started his career here in Indianapolis as the Youth Physical Education Director for the Jordan Branch. In 1994 he became the Senior Program Director for the North Suburban YMCA in Northbrook, Illinois, and later moved to Wisconsin to become the Program Operations Director for the Schroeder Family YMCA. Since 2000 he has worked for the Greater St. Louis YMCA as Executive Director of the St. Charles County Family YMCA. While in St. Louis, Tim won the 2002 Program Initiative Award for developing a Girl's Night Out program, which helped middle-school girls cope with physical and psychological changes. He also implemented a summer camp for at-risk youth in St. Charles, and collaborated with another YMCA to start a similar camp in another area of need.

Jennifer Summers, BS '92, is a Physical Education teacher at Forest Glenn Elementary School in Indianapolis. She was highlighted in an article in the Indianapolis Star for spearheading the exercise component of her school's initiative to combat youth obesity and help kids improve food choices, exercise habits and classroom concentration.

Brett Spring, BS '01, is the Director of the Fitness Center at the Columbia Club in downtown Indianapolis.

Molly Maguire Shrewsbury, MS '03, is working in the Center for Rural Health at the Marshall University School of Medicine in Huntington, West Virginia. Her husband, Micah, is the Director of Basketball Operations at Marshall University.

Department of Tourism, Conventions, and Event Management

Robin Chaplick, BS '03, is the Facility and Events Sales Manager for the Indianapolis Zoological Society.

Scott Kerr, BS '03, is the Program Coordinator for the Indianapolis Bar Association.

Luke Roseboom, BS '03, is a Sales Representative for Ranger American.

Faculty and Staff Briefs

On January 27th, Ed Schilling, Associate Professor, Physical Education; Dr. Lisa Angermeier, Assistant Professor, Physical Education; and Paige Craigie, dance instructor/ Moving Company, went to the Indiana State House to show support for a bill that will help combat childhood obesity. If passed, the bill will require the department of education to develop: (1) recommendations for school corporation nutritional policies and curricula; and

(2) model policies for the measurement of student body mass indexes. Faculty members and students spoke with legislators, and Paige Craigie performed a dance solo in the atrium of the State House.

In Memoriam

Vera Ulbricht died on February 16, 2003 at the age of 100. Born in St. Louis, she discovered her talent for gymnastics and began taking classes at Turnvereins German-American gymnastics societies. She graduated from the Normal College and taught physical education in Peoria, Illinois; Buffalo, NY and then in her home town of St. Louis for more than 40 years. She enjoyed traveling and participated in a Washington University School of Medicine study on exercise and the elderly while in her 90's.

George R. Breithaupt died December 1, 2003 at the age of 72. He entered the Normal College in 1955 and received his BS in Physical Education in 1963. George was an elementary school teacher in the Cincinnati Public Schools System. He was a member of the IU Alumni Association, Turners Athletic Club and the West Chester Presbyterian Church. He faithfully attended alumni week at Camp Brosius.

Cheryl Tormey died January 17, 2004 at the age of 46. She received her associate's degree in Food Service and Lodging Supervision in 1989. She was employed by Ball State University Catering Department as the Assistant Manager.

Pearl H. Wise died January 25, 2004 at the age of 88. Born in Buffalo, NY, she entered the Normal College in 1933 and graduated with her BS in Physical Education in 1937. She returned to Buffalo to teach for the remainder of her career. She was an active member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church and enjoyed needlepoint work.
