MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

I am pleased to present the 2003-2004 Dean's Report.

The school has, over the past three years, been involved in a significant development process. I would like to outline some of our areas of progress, which will be of benefit to students in years to come. We have consolidated all of our internationally oriented programs under one roof through the establishment of the Center for International and Comparative Law to enhance coordination and visibility. This Center is now responsible for four summer programs (in Strasbourg, Beijing, Buenos Aires and from next year, Dubrovnik), the International Human Rights Law Program, an international visiting judge-in-residence program and various moot court competitions.

This past year has also seen additional focus and resources allocated to the William S. and Christine S. Hall Center for Law and Health, with particular emphasis upon the creation of courses for the online LL.M. in Health Law, Policy and Bioethics, scheduled to commence in spring 2005. This Center continues to rank in the top 10 nationally. I would also like to mention our deep sadness at the passing of Bill Hall, a pioneer in the field of health law and a great friend and example to so many in our legal community.

It was very pleasing to bring the Center for Intellectual Property Law and Innovation into being in May 2004. This center's mission and programs were conceived following careful consultation with Indiana corporate leaders, judges of the federal and state judiciary and senior attorneys. It will, I believe, play a major role in assisting the state's BioCrossroads initiative and thereby contributing to the economic development of the Midwest.

Finally, we have over the past year added four new tracks to the LL.M. program in the areas of International and Comparative Law, Health Law, Policy and Bioethics; Intellectual Property Law and International Human Rights Law. (See www.indylaw.indiana.edu/llm) These tracks will augment the already successful LL.M. in American Law for Foreign Lawyers which now has 50 lawyers from around the world enrolled in its courses.

In conclusion, I must also bid farewell. As you may know, I will be taking up the Presidency (known in their system as the Vice Chancellor) of the University of the South Pacific in May 2005. I regret that my time here has not been as long as I intended but this opportunity will not wait and it is a unique chance for me to involve myself through the university and broader regional development responsibilities in a region where I have deep ties. I will very sincerely miss this law school's alumni, faculty and students and the wonderful community of which the school is a part.

Thank you for your support of the school and best wishes for a healthy and happy 2005.

Kind regards,

Anthony A. Tarr, LL.M., Ph.D.,
Dean and Professor of Law.

PAMELA L. CARTER '84 NAMED ALUMNA OF THE YEAR

On July 9th, the law school's Alumnae Network named Pamela L. Carter, '84 as the Outstanding Alumna of the Year for 2004. Carter was Indiana's first female African-American Attorney General. Today she is Vice-president and General Manager of the Global Filtrations Business at Fleetguard, Inc. Indiana Supreme Court Justice Frank Sullivan, Jr. and Lt. Governor Katherine Davis gave tributes to Carter, their long-time friend. Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, Professor Andrew Klein, presented the award during ceremonies at the Woodstock Country Club in Indianapolis.

"I am both honored and humbled to receive the Outstanding Alumna Award," she said. "Since graduation in 1984, I have reaped the benefits of opportunity that come from possessing a J.D. degree. Indiana University was the vehicle that provided me with a professional lifetime of rewards and chances to give back to society in numerous ways. I will continue to advocate strongly for strong alumnae support for generations of new students to our law school," Carter said.

The Alumnae Network, an organization representing the women graduates of the Indiana University School of Law - Indianapolis, is proud to promote the interests of fellow alumnae, women law students, and the law school community. The Outstanding Alumna of the Year Award is designed to recognize a woman graduate who has made significant contributions benefiting women or the legal profession as a whole.

PROGRAM ON LAW AND STATE GOVERNMENT SPONSORS SYMPOSIUM

Hon. Frank Sullivan, Jr. was a featured speaker at the PLSG Fellowship Symposium

On October 1, 2004, the Program on Law and State Government (PLSG) hosted its fourth annual PLSG Fellowship Symposium. Entitled, “Maximizing Judicial Fairness & Efficiency: Should Indiana Consider Creating an Office of Administrative Hearings?” the symposium was the culmination of the ideas, research, and work of the 2004 PLSG fellows, Julie Keen and Brian Berg.

“Julie and Brian engaged themselves in their topic to the full extent of the PLSG Fellowship experience – by speaking with judges and scholars across the nation, interviewing government attorneys and private practitioners within our legal community, attending national conferences in Seattle, Washington and Lexington, Kentucky, and by working tirelessly in an effort to develop their own ideas on the many facets of this issue,” said PLSG Director Cynthia Baker. “I am proud of them and their work,” she added.

More than 100 students, lawyers and policymakers attended the one-day symposium that featured presentations by judges and scholars from Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina, Georgia, Ohio, Oregon, Minnesota, South Carolina, and Michigan. The symposium also provided an opportunity for participants to discuss the issues of centralizing the offices of administrative hearings with representatives from states that have already done so. “The Fellowship Symposium was a day to look at both the heart and the skin of administrative adjudication – to define its purpose and shape our understanding of its possibilities,” Baker said.

INDIANA SUPREME COURT LECTURE

Justice Florida Ruth P. Romero spoke at the law school on October 12. Her lecture, entitled “Legal Challenges of Globalization” was sponsored by the Indiana Supreme Court. Romero is a retired Justice of the Supreme Court of the Philippines and is currently a Judge of the Administrative Tribunal of the International Labour Organization (Geneva), as well as President of the Administrative Tribunal of the Asian Development Bank.

FOURTH ANNUAL JAMES P. WHITE LECTURE

John Edward Sexton, President of New York University, gave the Fourth Annual James P. White Lecture on Legal Education on November 9th. Sexton, who was Dean of NYU’s law school for 14 years spoke on “Graduate and Professional Education in the Evolving University” to a crowd of students, faculty and alumni. The James P. White Lecture honors Professor Emeritus James P. White, who has served on the faculty of the law school since 1966 and as the ABA Consultant on Legal Education from 1974-2000. The annual lecture in his honor was established at the time of his retirement. President Sexton is shown here with James P. White and Dean Tony Tarr.

Inaugural Jordan H. and Joan R. Leibman Forum

The inaugural Leibman Forum drew a crowd that packed the Wynne Courtroom in November.

Jordan Leibman gave the history of the establishment of the lecture in his honor.

The Inaugural Jordan H. and Joan R. Leibman Forum on the Legal and Business Environment of the Arts took place at the law school on Friday, November 5, 2004. “Whose Art Is It Anyway? Crises in the Protection of Archeological Heritage: Iraq & Afghanistan” featured art historian and legal scholar, Dr. Patty Gerstenblith, Professor of Law at DePaul University. Professor Gerstenblith shared her perspective on two art preservation crises now gripping the Middle East.

A collaborative project of the law school, the IU Kelley School of Business and the Herron School of Art, The Leibman Forum was established through a gift from law school alumna, Leah Hartman, '85, who was a former student researcher for Professor Jordan Leibman, Professor Emeritus of Business Law at the Kelley School. The annual forum will explore the interface between the professions of law and business as they relate to the arts. “Art works are property that are generally bought and sold. Thus artists, after having launched their careers, often discover belatedly that they are confronted with serious legal and business issues they must deal with in addition to the creative challenges of their profession,” Professor Leibman said. “This forum can assist in addressing these many issues. We are honored to be part of this project,” he added.

Dr. Patty Gerstenblith, Professor of Law at DePaul University, delivered the Inaugural Leibman Forum Lecture.

PROFESSOR ROISMAN HONORED

Professor Florence Wagman Roisman, Michael D. McCormick Professor of Law, is one of five national leaders recently honored for their exceptional roles in providing legal services to underserved communities or causes. Equal Justice Works awarded Professor Roisman its inaugural “Outstanding Law School Faculty” award at the 12th annual Equal Justice Works dinner on Oct. 28 in Washington, D.C.

Equal Justice Works creates and supports public interest law opportunities for law students and lawyers. The annual dinner is the largest public interest law event in America and recognizes extraordinary achievements in public interest law.

“Professor Roisman has been tireless in her efforts to promote justice for the underserved,” said Dean Anthony Tarr. “She has been an inspiration to her students and is a deserving recipient of this award.” Roisman views promoting equal justice and fostering a commitment to human rights as her scholastic responsibility. “Brutality, oppression, discrimination, and unfairness characterize many legal and social structures in the U.S. and internationally. Students who want to humanize those structures deserve excellent training and encouragement for public service work,” Roisman said.

A long-time supporter of the student public interest law organization at IU School of Law-Indianapolis, Roisman serves as its faculty advisor.

SUSANAH MEAD, '76, NAMED INTERIM DEAN

IUPUI Chancellor Charles R. Bantz and Executive Vice Chancellor William M. Plater announced on December 7th that Professor Susanah M. Mead, '76 will take over as Interim Dean on June 1, 2005. Mead will assume duties following the departure of Dean Anthony Tarr who will become the President (termed a Vice-Chancellor in the British tradition) of the University of the South Pacific. Mead will be the first woman in the law school's 110 year history to lead the institution. She is a 1976 graduate of the school who has been on the faculty since 1978. She also has significant administrative experience, having served as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs for seven years (1997-2004). Chancellor Bantz said, “In this time of transition, we are fortunate that Susie Mead is willing to share her experience, energy and insight...Known to all of the faculty, staff and students, Susie will ensure leadership and continuity.” Bantz also announced that a search committee for a permanent dean will be appointed in the Spring of 2005.

Shannon L. Williams, Director of Professional Development and Pro Bono Programs, was awarded the Indianapolis Bar Association President's Award on November 18th. She received this prestigious award for her outstanding service to the IBA and the legal profession. Shannon is founder and co-chair of the IBA's Law Student Division Executive Committee, member of the Indianapolis Bar Foundation Development Committee, a member and former chair of the Indiana State Bar Association Committee for Racial Diversity in the Legal Profession, a member of the ISBA Professionalism Committee, vice president of the board of directors of the Protective Order Pro Bono Project of Greater Indianapolis, Inc., serves on the Heartland Pro Bono Council, and is a member of the IBA Pro Bono Standing Committee.

INAUGURAL "JOG FOR JUSTICE" RAISES FUNDS FOR PUBLIC INTEREST LAW

On Sunday, October 10, more than 150 law students, professors, lawyers, their kids, and dogs hit the pavement of the Canal Walk in downtown Indianapolis on behalf of the public interest. The inaugural Jog for Justice was sponsored by Equal Justice Works (EJW) and according to 3L Emily Benfer, one of the event's organizers, the jog was a success and raised more than $6,000 for EJW's Summer Scholars and Loan Repayment Assistance (LRAP) programs.

Although participation was the goal and nobody was really attempting to break any world records for speed, the first person to cross the finish line was Sarah Bitomsky, an LL.M. student originally from Australia, who is also a top athlete and an Olympic hopeful. She finished the 2-mile course in 11 minutes. Unfortunately she is a prospect for the Australian team, not the American team.

Benfer says, "For me, the most fulfilling moment was watching the runners take off from the starting line. The expressions on participants' faces ranged from determination to happiness. Everyone — ages 0 to 70 — appeared to be having fun. You can't ask for much more than a group of people enjoying themselves while at the same time they are giving - and making an enormous difference for public interest law!"

Next year EJW hopes to build on this year's success by increasing participation, doubling the proceeds, and spreading awareness about public interest law.

Next year EJW hopes to build on this year's success by increasing participation, doubling the proceeds, and spreading awareness about public interest law.

ESPADA RECEIVES EMISON AWARD

Angela Espada, Associate Dean for Student Services and Admissions, was awarded the 2004 Rabb Emison Award by the Indiana State Bar Association (ISBA) on October 14th. The award recognizes an individual who has demonstrated a commitment to promoting diversity and equality in the legal profession and in the membership of the ISBA.

EMILY BENFER SELECTED FOR EQUAL JUSTICE WORKS FELLOWSHIP

Emily Benfer, 3L, has been selected for the prestigious Arnold & Porter Equal Justice Works Fellowship beginning in the fall of 2005. During the two-year fellowship, she will work at the Washington Legal Clinic for the Homeless, where she will implement her fellowship proposal, DC HEART: Defeating Child Homelessness through Education, legal Advocacy, creative Resources, and community Teamwork.

Benfer, who received several awards in 2003 for her pro bono work, continues to be recognized for her efforts. This year she is the recipient of the 2004 Judy M. Weightman Memorial Public Interest Award from the American Bar Association, and a 2004 Pro Bono Award from the Indianapolis Bar Association.

Law School Establishes Kennedy Scholars Program

The Kennedy Scholars Program was established in 2004 in honor of U.S. Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy who delivered the keynote address at the dedication to Lawrence W. Inlow Hall in 2001. This year's recipients are first-year students Shana Collier and Suzanna Hartzell-Baird. Hartzell-Baird is a graduate of the Kelley School of Business on the IUPUI campus. She received IUPUI's Chancellor's Award in 2004, was on the National Dean's List in 2003-2004, and was named one of the Top 10 Most Outstanding Female Students at IUPUI in 2003. Collier graduated from Purdue (West Lafayette) with a 4.0 GPA and received her B.S. in Management. Collier says she decided to go to law school because of the career opportunities a law degree can bring. She chose IU Indy because she wanted to stay in Indiana. "Indianapolis is such a great city with so many things to offer," she says. "I liked the fact that the law school was close to state government and the Indiana Statehouse, so I could see the law first hand. There are also so many career opportunities in Indy. I was also very impressed with the facilities when I visited."

Collier and Hartzell-Baird participated in internships with businesses with close ties to the law school. Collier worked for CMG Worldwide during the summer of 2002, a company operated by founder Mark Roesler, '82 and employing several other law school alumni as well. She says she gained "a broad understanding of licensing and marketing fields" at that time. In 2001 Hartzell-Baird worked at Hall Render Killian Heath & Lyman, a firm with several alumni of the law school. At Hall Render, Hartzell-Baird researched tax law, and assisted senior attorneys with wills, trusts and the preparation of tax forms and other documents.

Both Kennedy Scholars were part of a select group of law school applicants invited to apply for this prestigious scholarship. They receive full tuition for the first year of law school, renewable for two additional years by maintaining a 3.2 grade point average. Kennedy Scholars will also receive an additional stipend for living expenses which also covers the cost of a trip to Washington, D.C. in the fall of the second year to visit the Supreme Court while in session.

For more information on the Kennedy Scholars Program contact the Office of Admissions at lawadmit@iupui.edu or call (317) 274-2459.

The Kennedy Scholars for 2004-05 are Shana Collier and Suzanna Hartzell-Baird.

Through the generosity of our alumni and friends, many scholarships and awards are available for deserving law students. During the 2003-2004 academic year, students received awards from private funds totaling more than $300,000. We are pleased to recognize the following recipients of these competitive scholarships and awards and express our thanks to those who have made them possible.

We would like to thank those generous alumni and friends whose loyalty and generosity have helped us to achieve so many goals. With your continued support, we can meet tomorrow's challenges and strengthen our educational program, student body, and faculty.

HOW DO WE SPEND GIFTS TO THE LAW SCHOOL?

Contributions made to the law school's Annual Fund that are not designated for a specific purpose are used to cover entirely or in part, a wide variety of financial needs. This support enhances the quality of student life, provides critical funding for important programs, and enables the school to strengthen its ties with alumni and friends.

STUDENTS

Gifts to the Annual Fund help to defray the high cost of tuition and other fees and assist student groups and programs with their initiatives as well as with sending representatives to national and regional conferences and competitions.

FACULTY

Annual Fund contributions support faculty recruitment, retention, and professional development.

LAW LIBRARY

Gifts help to maintain one of the largest and most highly automated legal collections in Indiana. The library serves law students, faculty, members of the bar, and citizens of Indiana.

ADDITIONAL SUPPORT

Private gifts are essential for funding guest lecturers, career services programs, student recruitment, publications, alumni events and commencement.

JOHN HOLT

“Leaving Things in Better Shape”

by Alicia Dean Carlson

As an infantry soldier in World War II, John M. Holt, '56, was taught a basic rule: Always dig a better hole.

While Holt didn't spend his career in foxholes, he did find a way to apply that military motto to his own life, both during his career at Eli Lilly and Company, where he spent more than 35 years as an attorney, retiring in 1987 as secretary and general counsel of the pharmaceutical division, and in lifelong service to causes for which he cares deeply.

“You always try to improve your position,” he explains. “It's true for society and every organization, church, or, even, political party. You always have to try to leave things in better shape for the future.”

Holt, a decorated veteran, easily could have been included in Tom Brokaw's The Greatest Generation. As Lilly's lead attorney for many years, Holt was present for the pharmaceutical giant's notable achievements in medicine, and helped craft major legislation governing the industry. As a civic leader, he has been active with the law school's alumni association, Northminster Presbyterian Church, the Indianapolis Parks Foundation, the 96th Infantry Division Association and Sigma Chi Fraternity.

A native of Western Springs, Illinois, Holt came to Indiana to attend DePauw University in 1946. He met and married his wife, Barbara, served a second, post-war stint in the army and was stationed at Fort Harrison when he was hired on at Lilly in 1952.

In the early 1950s, fraternity brothers from DePauw were enrolling in the evening division of the law school, and Holt did too, balancing family and career with his studies. It wasn't easy, he recalls. “For the first two years Barbara hoped I'd quit,” Holt says. “For the last two years, she was afraid I'd quit.”

Yet that perseverance instilled a sense of loyalty to the law school—especially the state's only part-time law school program—that continues today. Over the years, Holt—a founding director and past president of the law school alumni association—served as co-chair for the school's first annual fund drive; as a member of the search committee for the school's dean; as a member, chairman, and vice chairman of the school's board of visitors; and a member of the school's Capital Campaign steering committee from 1996-2000.

Holt, who was awarded IUPUI's Spirit of Philanthropy Award in 1991 and the law school's Distinguished Service Award in 1992, is simply grateful.

“This law school provided me with an opportunity I wouldn't have had otherwise,” Holt says.

Annual contributions of $500 to $999 to the Indiana University School of Law – Indianapolis are recognized by membership in the Dean's Council. Giving totals include gifts, pledge payments and matching gifts received by the IU Foundation between January 1, 2003 and December 31, 2003. These alumni and friends help strengthen and maintain the high standards of legal education provided at the law school. We are pleased to recognize the following loyal alumni and friends who have contributed at the Dean's Council level.

THE TWELFTH ANNUAL LAW FIRM AND CORPORATE CAMPAIGN

Each year hundreds of alumni from area law firms and corporations participate in the Law Firm and Corporate Campaign. This annual campaign is vital to the law school's annual fund. Our deepest gratitude to the 2003 Volunteer Chairs and participants of the 2003 Law Firm and Corporate Campaign. We would especially like to honor the eight firms who achieved 100% participation and the top firms and corporations that are recognized for their total dollars contributed in the 2003 Campaign.

SPIRIT OF PHILANTHROPY AWARD

Dean Tony Tarr, Hon. Brent Dickson, Spirit of Philanthropy recipient, and IUPUI Chancellor Charles R. Bantz are shown at the luncheon.

The sixteenth annual IUPUI Spirit of Philanthropy luncheon took place on Thursday, April 22, 2004 in the Ballroom of the downtown Marriott Hotel. Each school on the IUPUI campus honors those who provide exemplary volunteer service or financial support to the school.

For more than eighteen years, Brent E. Dickson had served as a justice on the Indiana Supreme Court. In addition to writing opinions, Justice Dickson has served as the chair of the court's Records Management Committee and its Judicial Data Processing Oversight Committee. Most recently, he headed the Indiana Task Force on Access to Court Records that last year studied issues of public access and privacy of information in court records and produced a comprehensive new set of proposed access rules.

Justice Dickson has been particularly active in promoting lawyer professionalism and civility, advancing mediation and alternative dispute resolution, and teaching Indiana constitutional law. The co-founder and first president of the Sagamore chapter of the American Inns of Court in Indianapolis, he is also a member of the American Law Institute. His published law journal articles include "Renewing Lawyer Civility" and "Lawyers and Judges as Framers of Indiana's 1851 Constitution." Justice Dickson taught a course in Indiana Constitutional Law at the law school from 1993 to 1999, and often serves as a volunteer moot court judge. He has participated in various law school alumni events and received the school's Distinguished Alumni Service Award in 1999.

Justice Dickson has been particularly active in promoting lawyer professionalism and civility, advancing mediation and alternative Justice Dickson earned his undergraduate degree at Purdue University, where he was managing editor of the Purdue Exponent and a pianist in the "Salty Dogs" Dixieland band. While in law school, he served on the school's law review prior to his graduation in 1968. He serves on the Heartland Film Advisory Board, and recently served on the Purdue School of Liberal Arts Dean's Advisory Council.

THE CLASS OF 2004 MAKES A COMMITMENT TO THE FUTURE OF IU LAW - INDIANAPOLIS

Last spring the graduating class of the law school joined together to make a commitment to stay involved and remain connected to the law school after graduation. Eight members of the class organized the Class of 2004 Campaign, a fundraising campaign to symbolize their support for the law school. We are proud to announce that the Class of 2004 had 32% participation and raised $8,023 for the law school. Congratulations and thank you to the following individuals for their contributions.

GIFTS IN HONOR & MEMORY

A gift to the law school in honor or memory of a friend, alumnus or parent is a thoughtful way to pay tribute to an individual. We give special thanks to the following alumni and friends who, between January 1, 2003 and December 31, 2003, chose to contribute to the school in such a special way.

Kenneth Crews is director of the law school’s newly established Center for Intellectual Property Law and Innovation, which has begun this year to initiate new programs, public presentations, ties to the legal community, and an expanding IP curriculum for students. The school is offering a new and wide range of courses for J.D. students, and as a foundation for the LL.M. concentration in IP law.

Professor Crews continues his research and publication, generally in the area of copyright law, and he has given conference presentations this year from Kansas to the University of Pennsylvania. In September he was part of a satellite teleconference that reached approximately 2,000 locations around the world. In October he taught a concentrated course in the LL.M. program sponsored by the Max Planck Institute in Munich, Germany.

Jennifer Drobac has published “Sex and the Workplace: ‘Consenting’ Adolescents and a Conflict of Laws,” 79 WASH. L. REV. 471 (2004). The article analyzes the conflict between criminal law treatment of the sexual molestation of children (including statutory rape laws) and Title VII treatment of the sexual harassment of minors in the workplace.

She spoke at a CLE conference on intellectual property law and related issues, Intellectual Property: From Music to Medicine, that took place at the law school in October. Professor Drobac’s topic was “Innovation and Legal Ethics: From Email and WiFi to Cookies and Crackers.” In May, she participated in the Law and Society Association Conference in Chicago, discussing the topic, “Redressing Structural Employment Discrimination.”

Professor Drobac continues to serve as a trustee on the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation Board of Trustees, in Menlo Park, California. As part of her duties with the Kaiser Foundation, she traveled with Donna Shalala, Charles Ogletree, David Kessler, David Satcher, and other trustees in July to South Africa for a site inspection of loveLife, the South African HIV/AIDS Youth Prevention Program. The tour included visits to remote clinics and youth centers as well as to hospice clients in Soweto. She then attended the International AIDS Conference in Bangkok Thailand where she focused with Kaiser executive staff on global AIDS awareness efforts with the Gere Foundation, YouthAIDS, and Transatlantic Partners Against AIDS (TPAA), among other organizations. She will continue to serve on the Kaiser Board of Trustees and is preparing a new class on bioethics and HIV/AIDS law.

During the fall term, Frank Emmert led a team of international experts charged with evaluating programs of higher education in law available in Lithuania. The expert commission looked at degree programs at six different institutions, two universities and four colleges. An assessment of elaborate self-evaluation reports was followed up by site visits, including interviews with faculty, students, and staff, as well as graduates, employers and other interested parties. Examination of the physical facilities, in particular the library and computing resources available to faculty and students, was another important part of the site visits. The final recommendations of the expert commission are now the basis for accreditation decisions by the Lithuanian Ministry of Education and the experts will continue to give advice on future licensing and accreditation questions as part of a joint effort in securing the best possible education in law in this transition country.

Nicholas Georgakopoulos spoke at the University of Connecticut Law School on “Principles and Methods of Law & Economics: Basic Tools for Normative Reasoning.” His treatise on the law of corporate groups appeared in print, as did his article on the voting patterns of justices in California around the 1986 elections, “A Case Study in Judicial Consistency,” 13 CORNELL J. L. PUB. POLICY 405 (Summer 2004). Also in print is his article “Self-Fulfilling Impressions of Criminality: Unintentional Police Race Profiling,” 24 INTERNATIONAL REV. OF L. & ECON. 169 (2004). He made a presentation on the application of veil piercing law to contract disputes at the annual meeting of the Midwestern Law and Economic Association, which took place in early October in Iowa City. In late October he visited again the University of Connecticut where he participated in the conference celebrating the publication of the five-volume treatise, BLUMBERG ON CORPORATE GROUPS (Aspen 2004) by Phillip Blumberg, Kurt Strasser, Nicholas Georgakopoulos and Eric Gouvin. There he moderated a discussion on the international law of corporate groups. He made a presentation on contract law veil piercing at the Workshop on Law and Society at the University of Minnesota at Madison in late September. In May, Professor Georgakopoulos attended the American Law and Economic Association annual meeting and, in September, the Canadian Law and Economics Association annual meeting in Toronto. A member of the board of the Forum for Academic and Institutional Rights (FAIR), he helped its pro bono attorneys with the preparation for oral argument before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit in June. The court's opinion vindicated FAIR's position.

In August, Fran Hardy served as a moderator for a panel on using special education advocacy at the Children, Mental Health & the Law Summit in Indianapolis, sponsored by the Indiana State Bar Association. In October, she was a facilitator for a session on "Right to Bail; Spotting Suppression" and a panelist on "Dealing with Obstreperous Others" for a program on Fundamentals for Criminal Defense Lawyers, in Indianapolis, sponsored by the Indiana Public Defender Council. Professor Hardy is a member of the advisory board of the Youth Law T.E.A.M. of Indiana and served as a participant on the Planning, Policy & Systems Development Subcommittee for the Juvenile Law Commission.

Robert A. Katz was one of four junior faculty invited to participate in this year's Health Law Scholars Workshop, a prestigious program for emerging health law scholars, which was co-sponsored by Saint Louis University Center for Health Law and the American Society of Law, Medicine and Ethics. The workshop was held on September 17-19 at Saint Louis University School of Law. Professor Katz presented a paper, "The Relationship Between Nonprofit and For-profit Firms in the Tissue Transplantation Industry: A Nonprofit Law Perspective," and discussed it with fifteen senior health law and policy faculty during a two hour session. On October 29, he participated in a panel on "Health-Related Philanthropy: The Donation of Self (and Parts Thereof)" at the annual meeting of the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities, being held in Philadelphia. He presented a talk on "Mission Accountability in Nonprofit Corporations" at a symposium on Who Guards the Guardians?: Monitoring and Enforcement of Charity Governance, held at Chicago-Kent College of Law in Chicago in September.

In May, he presented "Sticker Shock: Hospital Billings and Collections Practices for the Uninsured," at Clarian Hospital in Indianapolis. Additionally, Professor Katz published "Too Much of a Good Thing: When Charitable Gifts Augment Victim Compensation," 53 DEPAUL LAW REVIEW 547 (2004), as part of a symposium issue entitled "After Disaster: The September 11th Compensation Fund and the Future of Civil Justice."

In May, a paper written by Henry C. Karlson, "Harmonizing Diversities," was delivered as the keynote presentation at The Third International Conference on Intercultural Research, Taipei, Taiwan. Because Professor Karlson was unable to attend the conference, the paper was presented on his behalf by Professor Oliver Tzing. In June, Professor Karlson presented a workshop at the National Conference of the Child Welfare League of America, entitled: "What Do We Do With Serious Violent Offenders?"

Also in June, he lectured at the Paul Munger Summer Conference. The title of his presentation was "Juvenile Offenders: Education, Rehabilitation or Retribution: What is the Answer?" and he also lectured at Lutherwood, Lutheran Family Services, in Indianapolis. The lecture was entitled "Documenting and Reporting Child Abuse." In September, he presented a lecture at the ICLEF Indiana Law Update. His lecture was entitled, "Indiana Evidence 2003-2004, Selected Cases and Comments." In addition to the presentations he was once again elected chair of the Indiana Health Fraud Taskforce, and as chair of the organization obtained a $15,000 grant for the organization from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Eleanor Kinney has published "A Randomized Trial of Two Quality Improvement Strategies Implemented in a Statewide Public Community-Based, Long-Term Care Program," 41(9) MEDICAL CARE 1044 (2003); "Changes in the Adjudication of Medicare Beneficiary Appeals in the New Prescription Drug Legislation: Reform or Retreat?" Administrative and Regulatory Law News (Spring 2004), at 6 and "Would A Single Payer System Provide Universal Health Coverage In The United States?" 3(2) LAW AND BIOETHICS REPORT 4 (Winter 2003-2004).

Professor Kinney serves as Chair of the Subcommittee on Safety for the Indiana Legislative Commission on Health Care. She prepared a report for the state legislature on behalf of this committee. In August, she was appointed Chair-Elect of the American Bar Association Section on Administrative Law and Regulatory Practice. She also serves as a consultant to the US Department of State, Council for International Exchange of Scholars (CIES), South America Peer Review Committee, and to the Bayer International Bioethics Advisory Council. Also, as co-director of the Latin American Law Program, Professor Kinney hosted the first group of students to participate in a summer study trip to Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay in June.

Professor Kinney served as moderator for a discussion on “Managing Blame and Responsibility Under State Tort Law,” at a conference on Blame and Responsibility in Medicine, sponsored by the Medical Humanities Program on the IUPUI campus in October. She gave a presentation on “The Management of Risk from Emerging Viruses in the Manufacture of Blood Products,” for the Bayer International Bioethics Advisory Council, in Montreal, Canada, in April, and in March, she spoke on “Medical Liability Redux: Administrative Law Approaches to Medical Malpractice Reform,” at a conference, Administrative Law Meets Health Law: Inextricable Pairing or Marriage of Convenience, sponsored by the St. Louis University School of Law in St. Louis, Missouri. In May, the William S. and Christine S. Hall Center for Law and Health, under the direction of Professor Kinney and Professor David Orentlicher, co-sponsored (with the Riley Child Development Center at the IU Med Center), the Annual Conference on Childhood Disabilities: ADHD, Legal, Medical, Developmental, and Familial Perspectives.

Robert Lancaster served as the 2004 resident professor for the law school’s Chinese Law Summer Program at Renmin University School of Law in Beijing, China. Additionally, in October 2004, Professor Lancaster spoke at the National Equal Justice Works Career Fair and Conference in Washington, D.C. on the topic, “Social Justice Entrepreneurship: Creating Opportunities for Yourself and Society.” In July, the Indiana Supreme Court appointed him to the Indiana Pro Bono Commission, and he continues to serve on the Board of Directors of the Heartland Pro Bono Council. He was also recently elected to the Board of Governors of the Society of American Law Teachers. Professor Lancaster was one of four junior faculty to be selected as a Dean’s Fellow for the 2004-05 academic year.

■ In recent months, Norman Lefstein spoke at several programs in which he discussed issues such as defense representation for the indigent in criminal cases, access to justice, and capital punishment. During June, he addressed a meeting of the State Legislative Leaders Foundation in Chicago; in August he presented a paper at the International Society for the Reform of Criminal Law in Montreal, Canada; in August he spoke at two different programs at the American Bar Association Annual Meeting in Atlanta and served as moderator of one of the programs; and in September he participated in a conference at the Indiana University School of Law – Bloomington concerning the Massachusetts Governor’s Council Report on the Death Penalty. Also, in July the HASTINGS LAW JOURNAL published his study of indigent defense in the U.S. and England, titled “In Search of Gideon’s Promise: Lessons from England and the Need for Federal Help.”

BAKER ATTENDS LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

In June of 2004, Cynthia Baker, director of the Program on Law and State Government, graduated from the Hamilton County Leadership Academy, an interdisciplinary program centering on current issues of public interest and dedicated to building informed community leaders. In anticipation of graduation, Baker co-authored a paper entitled, “Linking Young Lives to Mental Health Resources in Hamilton County.” The paper explores the history of local government involvement with mental health issues, describes approaches currently used in other areas of the United States, and suggests a process through which Hamilton County, Indiana could improve its ability to respond to the needs posed by children with mental health disorders.

María Pabón López presented the paper “The Education of Latino Undocumented Children” at Latcrit IX, the Ninth Annual Latina and Latino Critical Theory Conference sponsored by Villanova University School of Law, April 29, 2004 to May 1, 2004 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She presented a paper “No Hablo Espanol: Now What: Can you represent a Spanish speaking client?” at the Indiana Continuing Legal Education Foundation seminar: Representing the Latino Client. in May. This CLE, the first ever in Indiana, was sponsored by the Latino Affairs Committee of the Indiana State Bar, of which she is a founding member. Also in May, she presented on the topic of “Legal Matters,” as part of the Community Orientation Program of the International Center of Indianapolis.

In June, Professor Lopez presented “More Than a License to Drive: State Efforts to Regulate Immigration through Driver’s License” at the Fifth Annual Immigration Law Teachers Conference in Baltimore. The national conference, held every two years, was sponsored by the University of Maryland School of Law. In August, Professor Lopez and Professor Kenneth Crews made a presentation for the orientation program for incoming international LL. M. students at the law school on the topic: “What Law Professors Expect from Students.”

She presented a paper on “The Place of the Undocumented Worker in the United States after Hoffman Plastics: A Comparative Approach” at the Second National People of Color Legal Scholarship Conference held October 7-10, 2004. The paper was presented at this conference held every five years, as part of the panel on “Immigration Law in Modern America.” Professor Lopez organized the panel and was appointed to the National Steering Committee for the conference earlier this year. She also introduced Professor Richard Delgado, who was a keynote speaker at one of the events in this conference. Professor Lopez also received a Special Recognition Award at the conference.

On October 20, she spoke on the topic “Mediation with Different Cultures and Diversity: Conducting Mediation in a Diverse Group.” at the Dispute Resolution Colloquium sponsored by the Indiana Continuing Legal Education Forum. This international two-day colloquium took place at the law school.

She presented a poster session on “Immigrants’ Rights” at The Latino Family at IUPUI, an event organized by the IUPUI Latino Faculty and Staff Association along with the IUPUI Office of Campus and Community Life in celebration of Hispanic Heritage Month. The event joined IUPUI Latino faculty, staff, students and alumni.

Professor Lopez was interviewed on “Hoy en Dia en Indiana” a Spanish TV program airing June 1, 2004 regarding the pending immigration legalization bills. The program is a Spanish-language public-affairs program that airs monthly on WTTV (Channel 4), and is produced at the WXIN (Channel 59) studios. She was also quoted in The Indianapolis Star article, “Unusual Custody Case Tests State Law” on September 3, 2004, commenting on same sex custody battles.

■ Gerard Magliocca gave a talk on “Trademark Liability in Secondary Markets” at the Intellectual Property Works-In-Progress Colloquium at Boston University in September. He also published “The Cherokee Removal and the Fourteenth Amendment,” in volume 53 of the DUKE LAW JOURNAL. In October, he served as moderator for Intellectual Property: From Music to Medicine, a conference sponsored by the law school.

■ Antony Page presented a paper, “Bounded Rationality and the Unconstitutional Use of the Peremptory Challenge,” at the Midwestern Law and Economics Association annual meeting at the University of Iowa College of Law in October 2004. He also reports that a related paper has been selected for presentation at the 2004 International Conference on Social Science Research in New Orleans.

■ Florence Wagman Roisman was the inaugural recipient of the National Equal Justice Works Outstanding Law School Faculty/Staff Award, presented in Washington, D.C. She had been nominated for that Award by IU-Indy students. She authored the Foreword and Dedication in the 2004 FEDERAL PRACTICE MANUAL FOR LEGAL AID ATTORNEYS (Sargent Shriver National Center on Poverty Law 2004) (available at www.poverlaw.org/fed_practice_manual/). Professor Roisman served as a panelist at several conferences, including the AALS Conference on Property Law for the Twenty-first Century (June 2004, in Portland, OR), where she spoke on housing law; the Housing and Development Law Institute’s 2004 Fall Legal Conference (October 2004, in Baltimore, Maryland) (“The Legal Effect of Brown v. Board of Education on Public Housing — 50 Years Later”); the Society of American Law Teachers’ Teaching Conference, “Class in the Classroom” (October, the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, William S. Boyd School of Law) (housing law); and the Equal Justice Works conference held in October in Washington, D.C. (“Over a Century of Stories from the Trenches.”). Professor Roisman is a member of the planning committee for the Third National Conference on Housing Mobility (December 3-4, 2004 in Washington, D.C.) She continues to serve on the boards of the Society of American Law Teachers, Poverty & Race Research Action Council, and the ICLU, and on the Master Trust Advisory Committee of The ARC of Indiana.

Margaret Jane Radin is the William Benjamin Scott and Luna M. Scott Professor of Law at Stanford University. She received her A.B. from Stanford, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and her J.D. from the University of Southern California, where she was elected to Order of the Coif. She also holds an honorary LL.D. from Illinois Institute of Technology/Chicago-Kent School of Law, as well as an M.F.A. in music history from Brandeis University. A noted property theorist, Professor Radin is the author of Reinterpreting Property (1993) and Contested Commodities (1996). She is also the co-author of Internet Commerce: The Emerging Legal Framework (2002, the first traditional-format casebook on e-commerce).

Professor Radin's current research involves intellectual property, information technology, electronic commerce and the jurisprudence of cyberspace. Most recently, she has investigated the role of contract in the online world, as well as the expansion of propertization through the expedient of treating information as if it were a tangible object. As a teacher, she has pioneered courses in Legal Issues in Cyberspace, Electronic Commerce, and Intellectual Property in Cyberspace. In 2002 she founded Stanford's Center for E-Commerce. Professor Radin is a member of the State Bar of California.

GLOBALIZATION AND THE PROTECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS

TUESDAY, MARCH 22, 2005

LECTURE: 5:00 P.M., Wynne Courtroom

RECEPTION: 6:00 P.M., Conour Atrium

*Hon. Mr. Justice John L. Murray
Supreme Court, Republic of Ireland*

Prior to his appointment to the Supreme Court of Ireland in 1999, the Honorable Mr. Justice John L. Murray served as Judge of the Court of Justice of the European Communities. He received his education at Crescent College, Rockwell College, University College Dublin and the King's Inns. He began his legal career in 1967 and in 1981 became a Senior Counsel, having been called to the Inner Bar in the Supreme Court of Ireland. As a leading member of the Irish Bar, his practice focused on commercial, civil and constitutional law matters. He was counsel in cases before the Court of Justice of the European Communities (Luxembourg), the European Commission on Human Rights and the European Court of Human Rights (Strasbourg).

He served as Attorney General of Ireland in 1982 and again from 1987 to 1991. Who's Who in Ireland commented that he was "a highly respected Attorney General; said to possess a cool and concise legal brain and a good sense of humour." He is a former Chairman of the Anti-Fraud Committee (AFC) of the European Central Bank, a member of the Board of the Judicial Studies Institute, a member of the Courts Service Board, Vice-President of the First Commission of the International Association of Judges, an Honorary Co-Chair of the International Law Institute in Washington, D.C., a member of the Editorial Advisory Board "World Competition," and a member of the Ethics Committee of the Commission
